

No to digital television copyright protection. This interferes with consumers fair use rights. Tell companies to take their ball and go home if they don't like it. Some how I think content providers will still make money.